

Morning last checked	Afternoon last checked
12 November 2020	12 November 2020
	Document last updated: 12 May 2023
This document and information herein are copyrighted to Saturday Walkers' Club. If you are interested in printing or displaying any of this material, Saturday Walkers' Club grants permission to use, copy, and distribute this document delivered from this World Wide Web server with the following conditions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * The document will not be edited or abridged, and the material will be produced exactly as it appears. Modification of the material or use of it for any other purpose is a violation of our copyright and other proprietary rights. * Reproduction of this document is for free distribution and will not be sold. * This permission is granted for a one-time distribution. * All copies, links, or pages of the documents must carry the following copyright notice and this permission notice: Saturday Walkers' Club, Copyright © 2012-23, used with permission. All rights reserved. www.walkingclub.org.uk
This walk has been checked/updated most recently on the dates specified above. However the publisher cannot accept responsibility for any problems encountered by readers.

Chilham Circular

A climb into the Kentish Downs and a descent to two historic houses

Length: 15.4 km (9.6 miles)

Toughness: 3 out of 10: gentle climbing, all in the morning

Maps: OS Landranger 179; Explorer 137.

Features

Starting from Chilham station and crossing the River Stour, this walk climbs in stages up through a pleasant area of downland and upland fields and woods to the hamlet of Sole Street. The pub here won an award some years back for the best pub food in the country, but as of May 2023 it is closed - not sure if permanently or temporary. So for now this walk has no lunch stop.

The finest section of the walk follows, taking you along a downland escarpment with panoramic views. You then descend to pass through the attractive estate of Godmersham Park, a house that was owned by the brother of writer Jane Austen, and where she stayed several times. The walk finishes along a quiet back lane which takes you to the picture postcard hilltop village of Chilham, dominated by the stately home of Chilham Castle.

All the climbing is in the morning half of the walk, with the afternoon largely downhill or flat. There are a few small bluebell woods in the central section of the walk, flowering in late April and early May, and some good displays of snowdrops towards the end of the walk in February.

Walk options

Since this walk shares the same (currently closed) lunch pub as the Wye Circular walk, also on this website, it is possible to combine the morning of one and the afternoon of the other to do a Wye to Chilham walk of 17.7km (11 miles) or a Chilham to Wye walk of 16km (9.9 miles). Of the two, the Wye to Chilham walk is the most scenic. To do this, follow the Wye Circular to the Compasses Inn and then switch to the directions in paragraph 39 on page 4 of this document.

Transport

Chilham is a stop just before Canterbury West on the line out of Ashford. It is served by one direct train an hour out of Charing Cross and London Bridge, with a journey time of 1 hour 50 mins.

However, you can reduce that to 1 hour 5 mins by taking a high speed train from St Pancras International (supplement payable) to connect with the direct train at Ashford.

If doing the Wye to Chilham option or vice versa, Chilham is one stop beyond Wye, so all you need is a day return to Chilham.

With the pub closed, it is currently academic, but to get to lunch in Sole Street comfortably by 1pm, take a train that arrives at Chilham no later than 11am.

Lunch

The Compasses Inn, Sole Street (01227 700300 www.thecompassescrundale.co.uk), 6.5km (4 miles) into the walk, is the only possible lunch option on this walk, but as of May 2023 was closed, possibly temporarily or possibly not. It had previously won an award for the best pub food in the country and become a bit exclusive... You could check if it has reopened in the same or different guise, but otherwise this walk has no lunch stop at present.

The best picnic spot is the escarpment in paragraph 45 of the walk directions, but there is also a nice bench nearer to the pub indicated in paragraph 40.

Tea

If you can get there in time, Shelly's Tea Room (01227 730 303) in Chilham, open 10.30-6pm in summer or to 5pm in winter, is the best option for tea and cakes. Though it looks small from the outside, it has an upstairs room and, according to its proprietor, "regularly holds groups as large as 45 people".

Of the two pubs in Chilham, the White Horse (01227 730 355) does tea and sells chocolate bars, as well as serving hot deserts, and has an attractive location in the main square. An alternative is the Woolpack Inn (01227 730 351), 200 metres down the hill on the walk route.

Note that it is 1.1km (0.7 miles) from the centre of the village and 800 metres from the Woolpack Inn to Chilham station, so leave 15 (or ideally 20) minutes to do this. There is nowhere pleasant near the station to spend an hour if you miscalculate.

WALK DIRECTIONS

Chilham station to Sole Street (6.5km/4 miles)

1. Coming off platform two (the platform from Ashford) at Chilham, walk down the station approach to the main road and turn left.
2. In 150 metres, at a major road junction, turn left following the A28 to Ashford, Godmersham and Wye.
3. In 60 metres ignore Bagham Place to your left.
4. In 60 metres more, opposite Bagham Lane on your right, turn left up a side road.
5. In 70 metres cross the railway on a level crossing and carry on up the road.
6. In 100 metres curve right with the road across a bridge over a small stream.
7. Ignore ways off to the left. But in 100 metres more, just after a larger bridge over the River Stour, follow the track around to the left. In 20 metres keep to the left of a house along the river bank on a path that soon begins to climb.
8. In 100 metres keep straight on at a crosspath, now on a wooded strip between fields.
9. In 70 metres emerge into the field to your right and keep on along its lower left-hand edge.
10. In 100 metres curve right, slightly uphill with the field boundary, on a hedge-free strip between two fields.
11. In another 100 metres, at the end of the field, enter a wood. Turn right immediately beyond this on a track, ignoring another track uphill to the left in 10 metres.
12. In 250 metres you pass over the top of a hill and the track starts to descend. In another 150 metres there is a view to the right of Chilham Castle (a red brick mansion with castle ruins behind).

13. Carry on downhill on the track. In another 220 metres you come to a junction, with one track carrying on ahead, the other turning right, and a footpath post on the left. Turn left at this post to find a stile at the top of the bank in another 20 metres.
14. Beyond the stile go half right across a field, aiming for a point two thirds of the way up its right-hand edge.
15. In 200 metres, on the far side of the field, you come to a wide gap, the entrance to a track. (There used to be a fieldgate here, but it is now missing.) Go down the track, through a wooded strip.
16. In 70 metres you emerge into a large field (another fieldgate missing here), and turn left directly uphill along its near edge.
17. In 100 metres cross a stile to the left of a fieldgate (noting the fine view behind you) and carry on through a wooded strip.
18. In 20 metres emerge into the corner of another large field and turn right along its bottom edge
19. In 120 metres there is a footpath post by the fence to your right, somewhat hidden by vegetation, with a yellow Stour Valley Walk arrow on it. Here turn about 70 degrees left (where 90 degrees equals full left), heading out across the field and gently uphill. In 20 metres you pass to the left of a metal feed container, but this may not be a permanent feature.
20. In 150 metres pass through a kissing gate and keep straight on downhill through a partly scrubby area.
21. In 150 metres pass through a kissing gate, and turn left at a T-junction, on a path overarched with shrubs and with intermittent views to the right (much clearer ones in winter).
22. In 400 metres, at the end of the field to your right, and as the path climbs into increasingly large trees, you come to a footpath post, with a somewhat hidden metal fieldgate downhill to the right. Here fork right on a level path, keeping just inside the wood (and avoiding tripping over a small tree stump in the middle of the path at its start. This section is rather gloomy, but is a relatively rare wild yew wood, proving that these trees don't just grow in churchyards.)

23. In 350 metres you climb a small rise to emerge (gratefully!) into the open. Carry on along the right-hand edge of the field beyond (with occasional glimpses through the hedgerow on your right of a fine view behind you).
24. In 200 metres cross a track and a stile and follow the path round to the right through a wooded area.
25. In 150 metres at a footpath post, keep straight on, on a path that soon has a field visible through the trees to the left.
26. In another 150 metres the path emerges into the field. Turn right along the field edge (ie carrying on in more or less the same direction as before).
27. In 150 metres you pass a mini-pylon pole and the field edge curves to the left. In another 150 metres turn right through a metal gate (concealed until you are nearly level with it).
28. Beyond the gate veer slightly left across a field, passing to the left of an mini-pylon pole, and aiming for a metal gate 50 metres to the left of the telecommunications mast you can see on the far side of the field.
29. In 150 metres pass through the metal gate into a wood and keep on along a path with a fence to the left initially. Where the fence ends, the path is indistinct, but keep straight on through the wood.
30. In 200 metres you come to a road, where you turn right (ie more or less the same direction as before).
31. Stay on this road, passing a (derelict?) industrial complex and a house on the right, the latter after 300 metres. After this you have woods to the right and a field just visible to the left.
32. In 300 metres there is woodland both sides. In another 200 metres, just after a small gravel parking area on the left, turn right up a track signposted as a byway (ie vehicles or motorbikes may come down this track).
33. In 120 metres the track forks. Take the left fork, straight on into the woods, ignoring the right fork which goes through a car-blocking barrier.
34. In 150 metres the track curves distinctly left and there is then a long straight stretch. (The trees on either side here are coppiced sweet chestnut.)

35. In 400 metres, with the wood edge visible ahead, a field can be seen through the trees to your right. In another 50 metres, and 20 metres before the path emerges from the wood, go left up an unmarked footpath that keeps just inside the wood, with a field 20 metres to the right. (Note, this is NOT the unmarked path 70 metres earlier to the left.)

It is also possible to remain on the track until you emerge into an open field and then turn left along a path along the edge of the field, with the wood edge to your left. This is not a right of way, but seems to be a path regularly used by dog walkers. If you do this, follow the field edge for 500 metres until you pass through a gap in the hedgerow into the next field, and then turn right on a path, with the hedgerow to your right. You are now in paragraph 38 below.

36. In another 70 metres, at a three-way junction, turn right into the field and follow a path along its edge that re-enters the wood in 20 metres. Follow this path as it skirts along just inside the wood edge.
37. In 400 metres the wood ends and you emerge into a field. Here ignore the path slanting left across the field (if any is apparent), and instead keep straight on, following the hedge to your right, on what soon becomes a part grassy track. (This track is not a right of way, but seems in general use by locals: if this has changed, use the path slanting left to get to a road and then turn right for the pub.)
38. In 300 metres you pass a house and come to a road, with the Compasses Inn, the (currently closed) pub on your right.

Sole Street to Godmersham (4.6km/2.9 miles)

39. Coming out of the pub after lunch, turn right on the road (or carry on past it if not stopping).
40. In 300 metres ignore a road downhill to the left (there is a bench at this junction with a fine view - a possible picnic spot, but a nicer one, if the ground is dry, is in paragraph 45 opposite).
41. In 170 metres more fork right up a track into the woods.
42. In 200 metres, where another track crosses the one you are on diagonally, keep straight on, as indicated by a yellow arrow, on a path under trees between two fields.
43. In 150 metres go through a kissing gate to the left, and go half left from your former direction, heading through the trees towards an open field 70 metres ahead.
44. Once in the field, keep to its left-hand edge, ignoring any apparent path that contours the slope to the right.
45. You soon start descending and in 180 metres you come to a kissing gate on the left-hand edge of the field. Go through this and beyond carry on slanting down the slope towards a clump of blackthorn bushes, ie roughly the same direction as before, with a fine view to your left. Anywhere on this next section is a fine picnic spot.
46. In 30 metres follow the path through the blackthorn clump (on the far side watch out for series of badger - or rabbit? - holes) and take the upper of two paths that contour the slope.
47. In 120 metres the path goes back into the woods, but in 50 metres more you emerge again and continue to contour the slope
48. In 170 metres more pass through a kissing gate into the woods again. In winter at least, the path is initially indistinct, but keep straight ahead, still contouring the slope. (More yew trees here.)
49. In 200 metres the path starts to descend. 80 metres after this, and just before the slope suddenly gets very steep, the path makes a turn to the left, along the line of the escarpment. In winter this turn in the path is not at all obvious, but as long as you turn left before the slope gets sharply steeper, and keep the steep slope to your right, a more distinct path appears.
50. In 120 metres the path goes into a more overgrown area and in 50 metres more emerges at the top of a large field. Your onward route here is half right, diagonally across the field to a stile which you may just be able to see to the right of a house 400 metres away.
51. When you get to this stile, cross it and keep on the right-hand edge of the field beyond.

52. In 180 metres cross a stile and 5 metres later a track to keep on along the left-hand edge of a field, with a tree boundary to your left.
53. In 250 metres pass into the next field and keep on gently uphill.
54. In another 100 metres, at the crest of the hill, turn left downhill through the field boundary, following a footpath sign.
55. Follow the path straight downhill across the next field(s), a distance of 400 metres.
56. At the bottom of the hill turn right on a road.
57. In 450 metres the road turns decisively left alongside the railway line (which is up the embankment to the right).
58. In another 250 metres, at a road T-junction, turn right, signposted to Chilham and Canterbury. Take care on this road which has some fast traffic. After the bridge there is a verge and then a pavement to the left.
59. 150 metres after the bridge cross the busy A28 with great care and keep straight up a minor road, signposted Godmersham Church.
60. In 350 metres you cross the River Stour on an elegant brick bridge. Beyond, go straight ahead through the right-hand of the two formal gates (the pedestrian gate is to the right of the main gate) into Godmersham Park (see panel opposite), now Abdo College, which trains opticians.
61. Immediately beyond the gate, go right through a wooden gate onto a signposted footpath. Keep straight ahead into the park, initially with a metal fence to your left.

Godmersham to Chilham village (3.2km/2 miles)

62. In 170 metres, at a 'Private No Public Right of Way' sign, turn left through a wooden fieldgate onto a grassy track between hedges. (To the left just before this gate you have a view of Godmersham Park house.)
63. In 300 metres, at a track crossroads (another view of Godmersham Park house here), with a brick house visible ahead, go right, still on a track between hedges.
64. Ignore ways off. In 250 metres you have a wood to your right.

Godmersham Park was one of three country estates owned by Edward, the brother of the writer Jane Austen. We know from her letters that she made several visits to it, and she describes having dinner with the owners of Chilham Castle, so she would certainly have travelled the route between the two houses taken by this walk. The house is now a college and its interior is changed from Jane's day, but the exterior is substantially as it was.

One assumes that Jane also walked around the estate and enjoyed its tranquil countryside (then undisturbed by the A28), but in fact her letters – written to her sister Cassandra – never discuss such matters, instead focusing on people and gossip.

Edward owned Godmersham because he had been adopted by the rich Knight family, distant relatives of the Austen's, even though his natural parents were still living. This arrangement – rather odd to us – meant he got the education of a gentleman, went on a Grand Tour, and – crucially – was able to help the rest of his family financially. Edward's eldest daughter, Fanny, was a favourite of Jane's, and in her letters to her the author made several famous remarks about her work which are now much quoted.

However, Fanny secretly found her aunt a bit common. Later in life she described Jane as "not as refined as she ought to have been" and said that had her father not invited her aunts to Godmersham "they would have been very much below par as to Society and its ways". Jane also seems to have been a less popular guest at Godmersham than her sister – at any rate, she does not seem to have been invited so often.

65. In another 300 metres, at the end of the field, ignore a (private) track through a wooden fieldgate to the left, and instead keep straight on for 30 metres to pass through a high metal gate (the pedestrian gate is at the left-hand end).
66. Beyond the gate, keep straight ahead at a track junction, now on the North Downs Way. (To the right on the next section is a view of the hills traversed earlier in the walk.)
67. In 300 metres you emerge onto a road. Go straight ahead along this.

68. You now follow this quiet pleasant lane for 1.8 kilometres until it brings you to the centre of Chilham. In 700 metres you start to pass houses on the right, and in another 300 metres or so the high brick wall of the Chilham Castle estate starts to your left.

In the 1980s Chilham Castle used to stage medieval banquets and jousting. It now leads a much quieter life, with the gardens open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from May to September.

The castle has a history going back to William the Conqueror which you can read on www.chilham-castle.co.uk, but it has basically always been a family home. The current house dates to 1616, but the keep of the old medieval fortress also survives. One of its more recent owners was Stuart Wheeler, founder of spreadbetting firm IG Index, who passed away in July 2020.

69. In 250 metres more there is a section of wall topped by a metal fence and towards the end of this you get a good view of the castle (a stately home with a castle ruin next to it) on the hill across the lake.
70. Shortly after the view of the castle, the road bends left and in 300 metres more you come to a three way road junction.
- To go direct to the station go right at this junction. In 200 metres you come to a T-junction with the Woolpack Inn on your left. Go right here and pick up the directions in paragraph 74.
71. Otherwise, to continue into Chilham village for tea (or just to see its very pretty main square), go straight ahead at the three way junction, up School Hill.
- In 150 metres you emerge into the central square of Chilham, with the castle gates to your left. Diagonally across the square is Shelly's Tea Room, and between that and the church is the White Horse.

Allow 15-20 minutes after tea to walk to the station.

Chilham village to Chilham station (1.1km/0.7 miles)

72. To continue the walk, come out of Shelly's or the White Horse and turn left (or if coming down the square from Chilham Castle, go to its end and turn right) to exit the square down an unnamed road at the opposite end of the square to the one you used to enter it. (Chantry House is on the corner of this road, and in 20 metres it is named as "The Street".)
73. In 200 metres you pass the Woolpack Inn on your right: beyond it keep straight on, ignoring ways off.
74. In 400 metres the main road is just to the left of the road you are on. Turn left up a 10 metre side turning to join this, and turn right (that is, more or less resuming your former direction).
75. In 150 metres cross a side road – the A28 to Ashford – taking care, as cars turn at some speed onto this road.
76. In 150 metres, opposite a white house on the left-hand side of the road (the former station inn), turn right up a side road, signposted to Hope View School, which leads in 70 metres to the station.
- Cross the bridge for trains to London. Note that trains to Canterbury sometimes leave at the same time as the London trains, so do not get confused and take the wrong one.