

Fforest Fawr Traverse (Craig y Nos to Llwyn-y-celyn)			Fforest Fawr Traverse (Beacons Way Route)
1 st walk check	2 nd walk check	3 rd walk check	1 st walk check	2 nd walk check	3 rd walk check
06 th May 2018	17 th October 2023
Current status	Document last updated Friday, 20 th October 2023
This document and information herein are copyrighted to Saturday Walkers' Club. If you are interested in printing or displaying any of this material, Saturday Walkers' Club grants permission to use, copy, and distribute this document delivered from this World Wide Web server with the following conditions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The document will not be edited or abridged, and the material will be produced exactly as it appears. Modification of the material or use of it for any other purpose is a violation of our copyright and other proprietary rights. Reproduction of this document is for free distribution and will not be sold. This permission is granted for a one-time distribution. All copies, links, or pages of the documents must carry the following copyright notice and this permission notice: Saturday Walkers' Club, Copyright © 2018-2023, used with permission. All rights reserved. www.walkingclub.org.uk This walk has been checked as noted above, however the publisher cannot accept responsibility for any problems encountered by readers.

Fforest Fawr Traverse (Craig y Nos to Llwyn-y-celyn)

Start: Craig y Nos Bus Stop

Finish: Llwyn-y-celyn Bus Stop

Craig y Nos bus stop, map reference SN 840 153, is 249 km west of Charing Cross, 209m above sea level and in the Tawe Valley (Cwm Tawe), Llwyn-y-celyn bus stop, map reference SN 972 226, is 15 km north east of Craig y Nos, 10 km south west of Brecon and 326m above sea level. Both are in Powys, Wales.

Length: 21.4 km (13.3 mi), of which 520m are on tarmac or concrete.

Cumulative ascent/descent: 947/830m.

For an alternative finish at the Storey Arms Outdoor Centre bus stop, see below Walk Options.

Toughness: 8 out of 10

Time: 6 ½ hours walking time.

Transport: Craig y Nos Bus Stop is on line T6 (Swansea- Neath - Ystradgynlais – Brecon), with a roughly hourly service Mon-Sat and 6 on Sundays and Bank Holidays, and a journey time of 40 mins from Neath (and 35 mins from Brecon). The journey time by train from London to Neath is from 2 ½ hours. The Llwyn-y-celyn and Storey Arms bus stops are on lines T4/T14 ([Cardiff - Pontypridd -] Merthyr Tydfil – Brecon [- Newtown]), with between them 12 buses a day Mon-Sat and 6 on Sundays and Bank Holidays.

Saturday Walkers' Club: This walk is not recommended as a daywalk from London, but when based in the area for a longer stay. Accommodation is available in Craig y Nos, nearby in Glyntawe or Pen y Cae, and further along the bus lines in Ystradgynlais and Sennybridge or Brecon and Merthyr Tydfil.

OS Landranger Map: 160 (Brecon Beacons)

OS Explorer Map: OL12 (Brecon Beacons National Park)

Walk Notes:

This is a traverse of the dramatic massif of the Fforest Fawr ('The Great Forest', with 'Forest' here denoting a former Royal Hunting Ground, rather than an area full of trees), one of the least frequented parts of the Bannau Brycheiniog (Brecon Beacons) National Park, linking the Black Mountain to the west with the Central Brecon Beacons to the east. From the Craig y Nos Country Park, an idyllic spot on the banks of the Afon Tawe (River Tawe) with its Victorian Gothic building, the route follows the Tawe Valley for a short stretch to rise steeply up a hillside to the Penwyllt Quarry, from where you follow old tramways up through the limestone terrain of the Ogon Ffynnon Ddu NNR, a large area of shakeholes and caves. You rise further along a good track and then trackless on up the slopes of Fan Gyhirych to its summit, the highest point of the walk, from where you have stupendous views of the surrounding upland moorland, the giants of the Beacons, the Black Mountain and of the Tawe Valley. Follow a steep glacial escarpment above the Senni Valley down to a saddle and ascend Fan Nedd and then Fan Dringarth, from where the route turns to another dramatic glacial bowl in the Craig Cerrig-Gleisiad a Fan Frynych NNR for a descent to the A470. An alternative finish at the Storey Arms Centre bus stop follows the Craig Cerrig-Gleisiad in a southerly direction and then the Craig y Fro escarpment high above the A470.

Walk Options:

An alternative route through the high plateau (adds 1 km) follows the Beacons Way between Penwyllt Quarry and Fan Dringarth, through the Ogof Ffynnon Ddu National Nature Reserve of Shake Holes and caves and along Sarn Helen (an old Roman Road), then past an ancient standing stone (Maen Madoc) and an old Roman Camp.

A 1 km out-and-back from the main route leads to Maen Llia, an impressive Bronze Age standing stone. The main walks' finish links up with one of the alternative starts for SWC 278 (Brecon Beacons Horseshoe).

An alternative finish at the Storey Arms Outdoor Centre bus stop adds 800m, cuts out the very steep descent of the main route and links up with the start of SWC 85 (Pen Y Fan and Corn Du from Storey Arms) and with one of the other alternative starts for SWC 278 (Brecon Beacons Horseshoe).

Lunch: Picnic.

Tea (details last updated 20/10/2023)

YHA Brecon Beacons Llwyn y celyn, Libanus, Brecon, Powys, LD3 8NH (0345 371 9029, <https://www.yha.org.uk/hostel/brecon-beacons>). The Youth Hostel is located 200m down a lane opposite the bus stop at the walk's finish and its reception is open and sells hot and cold drinks daily 07.30-10.00 and 17.00-22.00. It is licensed. Meals are served in the evening.

Welsh Glossary

aber: estuary, confluence, river mouth; afon: river; allt: hillside, cliff; aran: high place; ban/fan/bannau (pl): peak, beacon, crest, hill, mountain; big: peak; blaen: source of river, head of valley; bod: dwelling; bre: hill; bron: hill-breast; bryn: hill; bwlch: gap, col, pass; cadair: chair; cae: field; caer/gaer: stronghold, fort; capel: chapel; carn/garn/carnedd/garnedd: cairn/heap of stones, tumulus; carreg/garreg: stone, rock; castell: castle; cefn: ridge, hillside; celli: grove, copse; cerwyn: pot-hole; cist: chest; clwyd: hurdle, gate; clog/clogwyn: cliff; clun: meadow; clydach: torrent; coch/goch: red; coed: wood; craig/graig: rock; crib/cribyn: crest, ridge, summit; crug: mound; cul: narrow; cwm: hanging valley, corrie, bowl, dale; cyfrwy: ridge between two summits (saddle); ddinas: fort; dibyn: steep slope, precipice; diffwys: precipice, abyss; dim: no; din: hill-fortress; disgwylfa: place of observation, look-out point; dôl: meadow; du/ddu: black, dark; dwfr/dŵr: water; dyffryn: valley; -dyn: fortified enclosure; eglwys: church; eira: snow; eisteddfod: meeting-place, assembly; esgair: ridge; fach/bach: small; fawr/mawr: large; fechan: smaller; ffald: sheep-fold, pound, pen, run; ffordd: way, road; ffridd: pasture; ffrwd: stream, torrent; ffynnon: spring, well; gallt: wooded hill; ganol: middle; garth: promontory, hill, enclosure; glan/lan: river-bank, hillock; glas: green, when referring to grass, pasture or leaves; or blue, when relating to the sea or air; glyn: deep valley, glen; gors: bog; gorsedd: tumulus, barrow, hillock; gwyddfa: mound, tumulus; gwylfa: look-out point; gwyn/gwen: white; gwynt: wind; hafn: gorge, ravine; hafod: summer dwelling; hen: old; hendre(f): winter dwelling, old home, permanent abode; heol: road; hesgyn: bog; hir: long; is: below, lower; llan: church, monastery; llawr: level area, floor of valley; llech: slab, stone, rock, rock; llther: slope; lluest: shieling, cottage, hut; llwch: lake, dust; llwybr: path; llwyd: grey, brown; llwyn: bush, grove; llyn: lake; llynwyn: pool, puddle, moat; isa(f): lower, lowest; maen: stone; maes: open field, plain; mawn: peat; mawnog: peat-bog; melyn: yellow; merthyr: burial place, church; moel/foel: bare, bald/bare hill; mynydd: mountain, moorland; nant: brook, stream, dingle, glen; neuadd: hall; newydd: new; ogof/gogof: cave; pant: hollow; parc: park, field, enclosure; pen: head, top, end, edge; penrhyn: promontory; pentre(f): homestead, village; perfedd: middle; perth: bush, brake, hedge; plas: hall, mansion; pont/bont: bridge; porth: gate, gateway, harbour, bay, landing-place, ferry; pwll: pit, pool; rhiw: hill, slope; rhos: moor, promontory; rhudd: red, crimson; rhyd: ford; sarn: causeway; sgwd/rhaeadr: waterfall; sticill: stile; sych: dry; tafarn: tavern; tâl: end, top; talar: headland (of field); tan/dan: below; tarren/darren: escarpment; tir: land, territory; tor: break, gap; tre/tref: settlement, hamlet, town; twlch: tump, knoll; twll: hole, pit; tŵr: tower; tŷ: house; twyn: hill; uchaf: upper, highest; uwch: above, over; waun/gwaun: moorland, meadow; wen/wyn: white; y, yr, 'r: the; ynys: island, holm, river-meadow; ysgol: ladder, formation on mountain-side/school; ysgwydd: shoulder (of mountain); ystafell: chamber, hiding-place; ystrad: wide valley, holm, river-meadow.

Notes:

Craig y Nos Castle and Country Park

Craig y Nos Castle ('rock of the night' in English) is a Victorian-Gothic country house built on parkland beside the River Tawe in the upper Swansea Valley, it is located on the southern edge of Fforest Fawr. The main building was built (of grey limestone) in 1841–43 by Captain Rice Davies Powell, who became a county magistrate and a High Sheriff of Brecknock. The opera singer Adelina Patti purchased the castle and surrounding park land in 1878 to develop it (using pink sandstone) as her own private estate. After Patti's death in 1919 it was reconstructed as a sanatorium to combat tuberculosis. After a period as a hospital for the elderly, part of the complex is now used as a boutique hotel, catering, conferencing and entertainment venue. <http://www.craigynoscastle.com/>

The castle grounds are surrounded by a designated Country Park, which is part of the Bannau Brycheiniog National Park. <https://www.breconbeacons.org/discover/easier-access/attractions/craig-y-nos-country-park>

Bannau Brycheiniog (Brecon Beacons) National Park

Home to spectacular landscapes, a rich variety of wildlife and fascinating cultural and geological heritage, the Bannau Brycheiniog ('banaɪ brə 'χəɪnjɔg') National Park in Mid-Wales boasts a magnificent array of Old Red Sandstone peaks, open moorland and green valleys, spanning 1,344 km² (520 mi²). Pen y Fan within the Central Beacons is perhaps the best-known summit but there are many others in the five distinct parts of the National Park (Black Mountain (Y Mynydd Du) in the far west, Fforest Fawr, Central Beacons, the Llangattock and Llangynidr Hills, and the Black Mountains to the east). <https://bannau.wales/>

Cwm Tawe/Afon Tawe

The River/Afon Tawe flows for some 48 km (30 mi) from its source below Moel Feity in the Old Red Sandstone hills of the western Brecon Beacons to the Bristol Channel at Swansea. Its main tributaries are the right bank Upper and Lower Clydach Rivers and the Afon Twrch. The Tawe Valley (Cwm Tawe in Welsh) is more commonly known as the Swansea Valley. The lower part of the valley was intensely industrialised in the 18th and 19th centuries and was especially impacted by metal refining and working. The quality of the river has now greatly improved. Large salmon swim up the river to spawn, whilst trout are in abundance.

Beacons Way/Ffordd-y-Bannau

The Beacons Way is a 159 km (99 mi) linear waymarked long-distance footpath running east to west across the Brecon Beacons National Park. It passes many of the most important landmarks and mountain peaks in the range, but has limited waymarking, especially on open hill and moorland sections, meaning navigation skills are essential. First established in 2005, the route was revised in 2016.

Shake Holes and Swallow Holes

Shakeholes (or sinkholes or dolines) are a depression or hole in the ground caused by some form of collapse of the surface layer. Some are caused by karst processes, for example, the chemical dissolution of carbonate rocks or suffusion processes. They tend to occur in karst landscapes, which can have up to thousands of sinkholes within a small area, giving the landscape a pock-marked appearance. These sinkholes can drain all the water, so that there are only subterranean rivers in these areas.

Maen Llia/Maen Madoc

Maen Llia is a standing stone which sits on moorland. The stone is from Old Red Sandstone and measures 3.7m high by 2.8m wide by 0.6m. It is roughly diamond-shaped and is partly moss-covered. Its age and original purpose are unknown though it is thought to date from the Bronze Age. There is a low heather-covered henge nearby. Another significant standing stone, Maen Madoc, lies just off the old Roman road known as Sarn Helen about 3.5 km to the south. Whilst this latter stone bears legible writing, there is none visible on Maen Llia though some faint lettering was reported still to be visible in the mid-20th century. Legend has it that the stone goes down to the river– the Afon Llia– to drink on occasion. This tale is likely to be an allusion to the fact that its shadow is cast as far as the river when the sun is low.

Sarn Helen

Sarn Helen refers to several stretches of Roman road. The 260 km (160 mi) route, which follows a meandering course through central Wales, connects Aberconwy in the north with Carmarthen in the west. Academic debate continues as to the precise course of the Roman road. Many sections are now used by the modern road network while other parts are still traceable. However, there are sizeable stretches that have been lost and are unidentifiable. The route is named after Saint Elen of Caernarfon, a Celtic saint. She is said to have ordered the construction of roads in Wales during the late 4th century. Alternatively, it may be a corruption of the Welsh Sarn y Leng ('Causeway of the Legions').

Craig Cerrig-Gleisiad a Fan Frynych National Nature Reserve

This upland reserve lies in the heart of the Brecon Beacons National Park and dramatically illustrates the glacial processes that carved the landscape around 20,000 years ago, creating steep sided crags, sharp escarpments and huge lumpy moraines and hillocks that are clearly visible in the bowl beneath Craig Cerrig-Gleisiad's dark crags. The latter are the tide marks left by the melting ice. The area also contains the remains of an Iron Age village and a Roman road and tollhouse.

WALK DIRECTIONS

Alight from the bus in Craig y Nos by Craig y Nos Castle in the Bannau Brycheiniog (Brecon Beacons) National Park and walk in a southerly direction along the road's pavement (i.e.: against the direction of travel if coming up from Swansea/Neath, but in the direction of travel if coming down from Brecon). In 70m you pass Pentre Riding Stables (and B&B) on the opposite side of the road. In another 60m turn left at a corner of the wall on your left, following a signposted footpath through a double wooden field gate and in 20m through a wooden gate then along a gravel path. In 50m go through a metal kissing gate and turn right along a railed stepped path zig-zagging down into the Cwm Tawe (the Tawe – or Swansea – Valley) and in 100m – at the bottom of the steps – you emerge into a grassy area.

Turn right to a lime-washed timber cottage (part of the Craig y Nos estate and built in the 1880s for the then owner, the opera singer Adelina Patti). But [!] then turn away from the cottage across the grassy area to the left (35°). In 70m you reach the banks of the Afon Tawe (Tawe River) by a T-junction with a gravel path and turn left along it. In 90m turn right to cross the river over a two-railed metal footbridge (notice Adelina Patti's initials in the middle of the wrought iron railing (in red)). Turn right on the other side of the bridge and follow a gravel path along the river. Ignore a left forking path in 80m and in another 120m turn left with the path over a two-railed plank bridge and turn right at a T-junction of paths (to soon turn left with the path).

In 40m again turn left with the path along a lake. In 50m ignore a stepped path down to the left. In 125m fork right along a railed boardwalk and in 50m – where the boardwalk ends – continue along a winding path through a wooded area. In 70m you cross a stream on a plank bridge and in 20m turn left over a ditch to emerge back on the path at a T-junction. Turn right along the path and in 30m bear right at a T-junction with another – more prominent – path with the river again on your left. In 50m, by a ford on the left and 20m before a high two-railed bridge over the river, you [!] turn right at a three-way junction of paths with a Beacons Way marker post, uphill into a wood. In 30m you walk through a wooden gate at a T-junction of paths with a Beacons Way marker on the gate. Turn right along the bridleway.

You walk initially between fences and trees, then have a dry-stone wall on the left with a field visible behind the trees and on the right the Tawe River at times audible below and the Cribarth mountain plateau visible on the opposite side of the valley. In 600m you pass a house on your left (Rhongyr-uchaf on the OS map) and in 50m walk through a metal field gate. In 25m turn right along a tarmac lane leading away from the house and in 60m [!] turn left off the right turning lane through a gap to the left of a metal field gate to follow the continuation of the Beacons Way along a signposted bridleway through an open area. In 40m you enter trees and follow a steep narrow path uphill (the path turns to a streambed after heavy rain). You go through a more bouldery section and through a wooden gate at the end of it, and eventually emerge from the trees and continue along a dry-stone wall on the left, bending right with the path.

After 650m of ascending the hillside, you walk through a wooden gate onto a tarmac lane by a bridleway signpost and continue uphill along the lane. In 75m ignore a right turning signposted footpath through a metal field gate and in 250m at the top of the rise enter Penwyllt Quarry through a metal kissing gate to the right of a cattle grid and continue along a gravel track (notice the remnants of the Craig-y-Nos Station on the Neath – Brecon railway on the right; the station building was funded by Adelina Patti). In 40m turn right with the track along a barbed wire fence on the left. In 40m ignore a double metal field gate on the left. In 160m turn left with the fence but stay to the right of a large car park towards some cottages (although there is an interesting info panel about the Ogof Ffynon Dhu NNR away on the left).

The cottages belong to the South Wales Caving Club, standing on the boundary of the Ogon Ffynnon Ddu National Nature Reserve, a large area of shake holes and caves, containing the deepest caves in Britain. About 30m before a car gate into the grounds of the caving club, turn left past a grey marker post towards a wooden kissing gate and in 30m go through the gate to the left of a wooden field gate by a post inscribed 'Taxi Point 4' and a footpath signpost with a Beacons Way marker. Pick up a grassy track towards a limestone crag ahead (due E). In 220m ignore a right fork towards the limestone crag and curve left with a marker post with a red arrow along the more prominent path, steadily uphill towards a solitary hawthorn tree ahead on the ridge (40°) and in 75m go through a gap in a dry-stone wall and a metal gate in a fence line beyond it by an info panel on the NNR. You are now in Access Land. In 90m you bear right with the path between earth banks, still uphill, and in 140m reach a clearly identifiable Dismantled Tramway (on the OS map).

Here you have a choice:

For the Alternative Route following the Beacons Way, you continue in the same direction gently uphill along a broad grassy path on a bearing of 70° and pick up the directions at the end of this text under Beacons Way Route.

For the main walk, you turn left along the tramway (30°), leaving the Beacons Way, towards a gash in a limestone crag with that solitary tree to the left of it. You will notice the many sleepers of the tramway still in place on this stretch. In 250m walk through the gash and in 200m the track levels out temporarily, where you have good views on the left of The Black Mountain (Y Mynydd Du) and the Cwm Haffes gorge (SWC 279 The Black Mountain (Y Mynydd Du) from Glyntawe), as well as the Cribarth Plateau and the Tawe Valley (Cwm Tawe) (SWC 280 Henrhyd Waterfalls (Sgwd Henrhyd) from Craig y Nos). You continue along the elevated tramway past a disused quarry on your right and then some remnants of a red brick structure. Ahead you get glimpses of the highest point of the walk, Fan Gyhirych, and then walk through a metal kissing gate (with a Taith Cambria/Cambrian Way marker) to the left of a metal field gate and continue in the same direction.

As along the previous stretch, the location of the sleepers on the tramway is still clearly visible, and they are a reminder of how busy the area would have been with people toiling away in the quarries. You have a plantation ahead some way away and when the tramway curves to the right, after 50m you get full views of Fan Gyhirych again, sloping down to the right. In about 1 km the track veers to the right a little. In another 140m or so you [!] fork left (60°) at a clear junction along a descending car wide track, where the tramway continues towards an area of large Shake Holes. In 110m turn left at a T-junction with a car wide gravel track and in 40m cross the Nant Byfre on it. In 150m you turn right with the track, gently uphill, ignoring a track ahead towards a metal field gate 50m away. The track curves up around an unnamed top on the left, with the valley of the Byfre Fechan down on the right (this stream rises on Fan Gyhirych and Fan Fraith and flows into one of the shake holes on the right below, the Pwyll Byfre (on the OS map), which is therefore a Swallow Hole).

In about 1.4 km, by a metal field gate over a cattle grid in a fence line, you get superb views of The Black Mountain's Fan Hir escarpment rising on the left (300°). Go over a stile to the left of the field gate and continue along the track. In 550m (at 675m above sea level), where the track turns right and is nearly levelling out, and with first views of Pen y Fan and Corn Du ahead on the right, you [!] turn up left along a narrow grassy path up the slope of Fan Gyhirych. [This is where a drainer crosses the track, which channels a ditch on the left across to the valley on the right, and 180m before crossing the Upper Byfre Fechan stream.] Continue up the hill in a broadly northerly direction and in you 600m reach the trig point at the summit, at 725m above sea level the highest point of the walk. Inscriptions on two of the sides read 'Yma o hyd' and 'Cymru am byth', which translate as 'We are still here' and 'Long Live Wales', phrases used in songs by supporters of the Welsh Football and Rugby teams respectively.

Continue in the same direction for 80m to a large cairn for better views though. You have The Black Mountain and the Cribarth Plateau on the left with Swansea Bay in the far distance at the bottom of the Tawe Valley (210°), the Cray Reservoir down below in the valley with Sennybridge village far beyond it and Pen y Fan and Corn Du away on the right. From the cairn turn right from the previous direction (95°) along a distinct grassy path and in 250m turn right along the rim of the escarpment (ignore a right fork just before the rim), with a dramatic bowl-shaped glacial valley on the left, forested at the bottom, and running towards the Cray Reservoir. [You have Fan Fraith dead ahead, and Fan Nedd, Fan Dringarth and Fan Frynych hills away to the left]. The path curves to the left with the rim and then steadies on a bearing of 60°, continuing at a little distance from the rim down the broad boggy ridge.

You can see the car wide track you were on earlier away on the right and/or ahead and eventually the path fords the Nant Gihirych, 1.5 km after joining the rim. In another 140m you join the car wide track at a T-junction by a rusty metal field gate over a cattle grid and some sheep pens to the right of those. Cross the track and go over a stile opposite with a Taith Cambria marker (to the right of the sheep pens). The aim now is the clear path that ascends Fan Nedd towards a cairn on the top of the rise on the other side of this valley. To get to that path you have a choice, but in both cases watch out for deep mud holes en route: either head downhill through the spongy ground on a bearing of 105° towards where a farm track from the left runs through a dry-stone wall, or initially follow a path along a fence on the left and in 500m by a double metal field gate on the left turn right along the farm track to that point.

In either case go through the part-collapsed dry-stone wall on the farm track and ignore a first path turning left off it on a bearing of 80° towards a wall on the left, but do turn left along a second path (110°) which in 20m veers left and continue through the soggy bottom of the drop and then start the long ascent up Fan Nedd (120°). Ignore ways off and stay on broadly the same bearing until in 1.25 km you reach the man-high cairn on the top of the rise at 652m above sea level. The hill's summit and trig point are 400m away to the right though, at 663m above sea level. In the valley below, you can see Maen Llia, a very impressive ancient standing stone in a field, just beyond the valley road, on 65°. Turn left from the cairn (30°) along a clear path towards a dry-stone wall corner 600m away and then descend further, with the dry-stone wall on the left. In another 650m you go over a stile in the lower fence corner of the field onto the Ystradfellte/ Heol Senni & Brecon road.

Maen Llia is about 500m off to the right along the road. But cross the road a little to the left to continue through a grassy boggy area to the left of a dry-stone wall. In 180m it is advisable to curve clear to the left around a particularly boggy stretch (an infant tributary stream to the Senni river) and after that, where the dry-stone wall turns hard right, you veer right uphill (due E) up the Bryn Melyn (hill). The terrain levels out for a while, and in another 300m you cross a car wide track (Sarn Helen, a Roman Road, on the left leading to Y Gaer, a Roman Fort near Brecon [see SWC 306 Brecon Circular]). In 400m continue ascending up the ridge ahead (Fan Dringarth). In 750m you reach the sharp drop of the escarpment by some distinct small boulders, at 607m above sea level, with Fan Fawr ahead on the other side of the steep valley. Fan Dringarth's and Fan Llia's summits are off to the right along the escarpment. Turn left along the ridge.

*) The path veers left a little and continues in a northerly direction. Ignore all ways off for 1.3 km and then, at a minor summit (point 570m on the OS map), bear half right along a broader path (50°), gently descending. In 450m you cross some deep groughs (an infant stream) and in another 150m the path forks.

Here you have a choice:

For a finish at the Storey Arms Centre bus stop, you fork right further up the slope of Craig Cerrig-gleisiad and pick up the directions at the end of this text under Storey Arms Ending.

For the main walk finish at the Llwyn-y-celyn Youth Hostel bus stop, you take the left fork (30°) towards a wire fence and a steep escarpment 250 meters away on the left. Continue with a fence and the steep drop of the escarpment (Craig Cwm-du) on the left through a little dip. The Nant Cwm-du (stream) runs along the bottom away to the left towards the Afon Senni. You reach a plateau and continue straight ahead with views of Pen y Fan and Corn Du directly ahead, and with The Black Mountains/ Y Mynyddoedd Duon in the distance to the left of them (in good weather). After 1.3 km along the fence, you reach a path and fence T-junction by a sign for the Craig Cerrig Gleisiad a Fan Frynych National Nature Reserve on the left, with a steep drop directly ahead and by a couple of stiles (one ahead and one to the left).

Turn left to cross the stile into the Nature Reserve (leaving the Beacons Way for a last time, which heads off to the right) and continue gently uphill, now with a fence and a drop to your right. You have Fan Frynych ahead (its summit stands at 629m above sea level) and can see Brecon down in the valley below far away to the right. In 250m turn right through a wooden kissing gate and head to the right, gently downhill on a clear path (80°) past a brown wooden post. In 20m follow this path around to the left as it contours along the side of a steep slope (20°). In a further 30m you pass a grey wooden post on the right to continue following the path along the hillside (ignoring a right fork downhill). In 250m at a well-made cairn and a grey wooden post with blue arrows, you turn sharply right to continue steeply downhill on a clear grassy path. You will pass a few more marker posts with some dramatic cliffs ahead and around to the right (the Craig Cerrig-gleisiad, result of massive post-glacial rockslides).

In 400m, after the path has levelled out for a while, fork right as asked for by a low sign, ignoring a faint path heading up a small hill on the left, point 464m on the OS map and a moraine, left behind by a melting glacier. The path eventually makes a gradual curve to the left. In 550m you go through a stepped wall gap to the right of a wooden gate to continue in the same direction and in another 340m go through a metal gate into a lay-by on the A470 to turn left along its grassy margin. In 300m on the right you reach the bus stop for services to Merthyr Tidfyl and Cardiff, and in another 130m on the left the one for services to Brecon. If you have time, cross the road and pay a visit to the Llwyn-y-Celyn YHA Brecon Beacons 200m down the track 30m before the bus stop. They are open to the public and have a small bar area inside and some tables outside for a post walk beverage or snack.

Beacons Way Route (add 1.0 km but cut 146m ascent)

In 60m bear right with the path (100°) and in 50m bend left with it. In 190m bear right by some remnants of a drystone wall enclosure. In 100m – near at the top of the rise – you meet a car wide grassy track at a T-junction and turn left along it (40°). In 150m go through a slide gate stile to the left of a metal field gate into a fenced area and continue along the fence on the right with limestone pavement on the left. In 220m you pass an info panel about the limestone pavement and in 400m leave the enclosure through another slide gate stile to the left of a metal field gate. You continue along a clear grass path, bearing left briefly and in 40m bearing right to continue in the previous direction (50°) with views on the left of The Black Mountain and the Cwm Haffes gorge (SWC 279), as well as the Cribarth Plateau and the Tawe Valley (SWC 280).

On the right you pass several shake holes, while gently rising with the path for another 250m. From the top, to the left you can see the highest point of the main walk, Fan Gyhirych, and half left ahead Fan Nedd, also crossed on the main walk. Continue along the clear grassy path, on the level for a while, and in 140m pass a wooden marker post (w/o a marker at time of writing) and in another 50m a metal post. In another 40m the path curves to the right to a slide gate stile to the right of a metal field gate and in another 70m you turn left with the path through boggy ground. In 60m bear right through a dip and in 430m the path starts to descend, opening up views to a lightly wooded area in the distance. The route will lead through it before ascending Fan Llia. On a bearing of 65° (on a clear day) you can see Corn Du in the Central Beacons. In 220m go through a wooden kissing gate in a fence line to leave the Ogon Ffynnon Ddu National Nature Reserve by an info panel through a drystone wall.

You now follow a clear path through heathery, partly boggy ground mostly gently downhill into the valley of the Nedd Fechan. You pass several yellow-topped poles en route as well as a few structures left over from former agricultural use: in 400m a walled enclosure; in 250m a much smaller walled structure away to the right, possibly a sheep pen; in 350m another, slightly bigger enclosure close by on the right; in 300m a large walled structure away to the left (just before the path bears to the right). In another 200m pass a large walled structure close by on the right and in 800m you reach some larger ruined farm buildings and walls on the left by a two-way signpost. [There is no sign on the ground of the footpath shown on the OS map as turning right here.] The path curves to the left and in 300m from the two-way signpost you turn right at a T-junction with a car wide gravel track by another two-way signpost, signed 'Sarn Helen'. You can see Sarn Helen, an old Roman Road, on the opposite side of the valley, bearing up the left along the flank of the hill and through a wood, in a straight line.

In 450m where the track continues to the right through a metal field gate, [!] you go over a stile on the left with a Beacons Way marker, to the right of two other metal field gates and in 15m ignore a right turning car wide gravel track (a byway, by a broken signpost) and in 10m go through a metal field gate in a drystone wall. Ignore a stile on the left into a new plantation and turn left with a car wide track at a three-way junction, ignoring the signposted footpath down to Blaen-nedd-Isaf. In 340m ignore a right turning car wide track to the farm below (a Public Way), in 15m fork right with the car wide track and in 115m go through a metal field gate. In 100m you reach a ford through the Nedd Fechan River by a two-railed footbridge on the right and a very nice picnic spot on its bank on the left. On the other side of the bridge turn left through a metal field gate with a Beacons Way marker and follow the car wide track to the right. In 180m go through another metal field gate, entering Access Land. You curve left then right and left again to continue in a straight line for 2.0 km along Sarn Helen, with only one right veer diverting from the generally straight direction.

In more detail: in 250m you have a plantation on the left; in 650m you pass Maen Madoc, an inscribed standing stone, on your right in a field by the highest point of this stretch and in 80m the track continues over a cattle grid and through a wood for 500m, descending into the valley of the Afon Llia and in 550m you go through a metal field gate and in 25m turn right at a T-junction with a road, leaving the Sarn Helen. In 100m turn left over a stile at a fence corner and follow a path steeply downhill through the tussocky slope towards a car park on a gravel lane at the bottom of the drop, leading on the left to a two-railed bridge over the river. [Where there is a fork, stay to the right as that area is less boggy.] By the car park, there are some info panels and a map and you cross the Afon Llia on a very wide two-railed bridge. On the other side, immediately turn left along a grass path. In 80m turn right uphill with the path and in another 40m turn left through a metal gate with a Beacons Way marker on the reverse.

You go over a railed footbridge across a ditch and – with a small waterfall visible below to the left on a Dringarth tributary – in 20m bear right uphill on a broad bearing of 40° along a not always obvious path up through the rolling moorland to the ridge of Fan Llia. Higher up, the path is clear and grassy. In 1.7 km pass a large cairn on the ridge at 614m above sea level, where the gradient eases considerably and you have the Ystradfellte Reservoir down below on the right in the Cwm Dringarth and Fan Fawr rising on the other side of the valley. In 100m you pass a couple of small lochs and in 430m go over the top of Fan Llia at 632m above sea level and continue along the clear ridge path (5°). Half left ahead you can see the scenic Cwm Senni dropping down from the Fforest Fawr all the way to Sennybridge on the River Usk. In 700m go over the top of Fan Dringarth at 617m above sea level and in another 250m you pass some distinct small boulders right by the sharp drop of the escarpment, at a height of 607m above sea level. The main walk comes up the slope from the left.

Continue in the same direction and pick up the text above at the asterisk *).

Storey Arms Ending (add 0.8 km, but cut out a very steep descent)

In 400m the gradient eases and you continue in the same direction, more gently ascending. In 400m or so (at 600m above sea level) you reach a large cairn (the 'Pile of Stones' on the OS map) and fork right (50°), leaving the Beacons Way (which forks left on 30°). In 70m you veer right (due E) and follow the path to the peak of Craig Cerriggleisiad 650m away. You have Fan Fawr away to the right. At the cairn on the peak, at 629m above sea level, there is a barbed wire fence line visible 50m ahead with dry-stone wall remnants and the steep drop of the escarpment beyond it. The Beacons Way runs along the fence. Drop down to the fence and turn right along it. In 120m at the fence corner, turn left with the fence and with Beacons Way markers on a fence post. In 150m bear left with the fence and some more markers.

In 90m the path drops more steeply and in another 120m where the fence bears left (at spot height 560m above sea level), [!] turn right – initially without a path – and in 50m you can see a clear path about 100m away, on a bearing of 160°. Pick up that path and contour along the steep grassy slope with views ahead of the large car park on the A470 by the Storey Arms Centre, to the right of a forested area. The path continues with the drop to your left (Gorllwm on the OS map) and you follow this for 2.5 km, ignoring occasional forks off to the right. Cross a number of streams, some continuing their drop down the Craig y Fro as waterfalls, and eventually the path descends to converge with the A470 below and you walk through the left of two kissing gates and over a boardwalk across some muddy ground into the car park. The bus stop for services to Brecon is away to the right, the one for services to Merthyr Tidfyl and Cardiff opposite.