

Ham Street to Appledore walk

A walk full of historical interest in the low hills around Romney Marsh

Length	Main Walk: 19¼ km (12.0 miles). Four hours 30 minutes walking time. For the whole excursion including trains, sights and meals, allow at least 9½ hours. Short Walk 1, via the Canal: 13½ km (8.4 miles). Three hours 10 minutes walking time. Short Walk 2, via the Vineyard: 12¾ km (7.9 miles). Three hours walking time.
OS Map	Explorer 125. Ham Street, map reference TR001337, is in Kent, 8 km S of Ashford.
Toughness	3 out of 10 (2 for the Short Walks).
Features	From the station a path takes you across a field and straight into Ham Street Woods, a National Nature Reserve noted for its wood anemones and bluebells in spring. The walk loops through this extensive woodland and then heads south-west on the Saxon Shore Way (SSW), a long-distance path indicating that this was the coastline in Roman and Saxon times. A short section through Hamstreet village and across gently rolling sheep pastures soon brings you to an early lunch stop in Warehorne's village pub. In the afternoon the walk continues to follow the SSW through more pastures to the isolated Kenardington church, some way from its village. In the next section you go through the extensive Gusbourne Vineyard to an ancient mound whose 'pew with a view' gives you a panoramic view across Romney Marsh. The Main Walk now loops back past the unusual 14thC Horne's Place Chapel and Park Wood, before heading south to the area's most famous landmark.

The Royal Military Canal was hastily constructed in the early 19thC to protect England from a threatened Napoleonic invasion. As William Cobbett was fond of pointing out, the emperor whose armies had crossed the Rhine and the Danube was hardly likely to be deterred by this innocuous waterway; the invasion never came and the project was soon being condemned as an extravagant military folly. In the ditches alongside the canal you might come across some more resolute invaders, such as the green marsh frog (originally from Hungary) or even one of its predators, the mink.

A broad grassy path alongside a stretch of the canal owned by the National Trust eventually brings you to an attractive village with a broad street of elegant medieval houses: Appledore was an important port until great storms in the 13thC changed the course of the River Rother. Its station is more than 2 km away but you can choose between an excellent tearoom and a fine pub for refreshment before the final stretch across flat farmland.

Walk Options

The suggested circuit through Ham Street Woods can be tricky to follow and for a simpler alternative you could take one of its three designated nature trails. No written instructions are given here but the routes are all clearly waymarked.

Two significantly shorter walks are possible by cutting out the afternoon loop. The first of these Short Walks heads for the Royal Military Canal from Kenardington church, omitting the stretch through the vineyard; the second continues directly into Appledore from the far end of the vineyard, omitting the stretch alongside the canal.

Additional Notes

This walk was redesigned in 2018 as some parts had become awkward or difficult to follow (including the alternative start from Appledore). However, one drawback of cutting out the long and relatively featureless morning section via Ruckinge has been to make the Main Walk more unbalanced, with a significantly longer afternoon; the two Short Walks work better in this respect.

Transport

Ham Street and Appledore are adjacent stations on the Ashford–Hastings line, which has an hourly service. From London, it is quicker to travel via Ashford. The fastest route is on the High Speed Train from St Pancras, taking about 1 hour. You can also travel from Charing Cross or Victoria, taking just over 1½ hours.

The only bus route in the area is Stagecoach 11, which runs every 1–1½ hours (Mon–Sat) between Ashford and Lydd via Hamstreet, with just one or two of these services also going through Appledore.

If driving, there are free car parks in Hamstreet and Appledore villages. A small parking area at Ham Street station is shown as free for rail users.

Suggested Train

Take the train nearest to 10:40 from St Pancras to Ham Street, changing at Ashford International. If travelling on a slower train from Charing Cross or Victoria, leave at least half an hour earlier.

Lunch

The suggested lunchtime stop is the Woolpack Inn (01233-732900) in Warehorne (after 5 km), which reopened in May 2015 after being closed for 1½ years. This attractive pub is open all day and serves excellent home-cooked food made from local ingredients.

There are no more refreshment stops until you reach Appledore, but the Black Lion (01233-758206) also serves excellent food if you want a late pub lunch on either of the Short Walks, around 6 km further on.

Tea There is no refreshment place near Appledore station (the Railway Hotel closed in 2013) but there are two nice places in the village. As well as the Black Lion (see above), Appledore offers “the quintessential English tea time experience” at the delightfully-named Miss Mollett's High Class Tea Room (01233-758555; open to 4pm weekdays in winter, 5pm otherwise; closed Mon and the Tue following a Bank Holiday). You need to allow at least half an hour to reach the station, 2¼ km away.

Walk Options

- M. Main Walk (19¼ km)
- I. Short Walk 1, via the Canal (13½ km)
- II. Short Walk 2, via the Vineyard (12¾ km)

Walk Directions

1. Ham Street Station to Ham Street Woods (¼ km)

Arriving from Ashford, do not take the exit from the front of the platform but go back under the new footbridge to the end of the platform opposite the small station building. Veer right down a tarmac footpath through a new housing development, briefly joining the Greensand Way¹ (GW). At the end go over a stile and continue along the right-hand edge of a field. In the next corner go over two more stiles and turn left through a small parking area at the end of Bourne Lane into Ham Street Woods NNR.

2. Through Ham Street Woods (up to 2¾ km)

This section is a circuit through these woods, returning to this point. The suggested route is a clockwise circuit which is mostly on woodland paths away from the potentially muddy main rides. For a simpler alternative (see §2b below) you could follow one of the three waymarked nature trails, but in practice you could take any route you please. If you get lost any dog walker should be able to direct you to the Bourne Lane parking area!

a. Main route (2¾ km)

The first 750m of the suggested route follows the blue arrows of one of the waymarked trails. Start by turning left just inside the wood, passing an information panel on your right. Ignore paths and rides off to the right for the first 400m (including the GW and the yellow route at the first junction), staying near the left-hand edge of the wood. Eventually you fork right at a junction where a marker post shows that the red and blue routes split.

Follow the path gently uphill through the wood, heading NE for 350m. At a path junction turn left onto a broad ride, switching to the (anti-clockwise) red route for the next 150m. You pass a pond on the left, then turn right off this route at a path junction with a small information board about moths and bats.

The path climbs gently for 200m, heading E. After passing a small pond on the left it swings right and starts to descend. In 150m follow the path round to the left as it merges with the main ride through the wood (the GW again), heading towards a wooden fieldgate at the boundary of the Nature Reserve. Ignore the gate and go straight across the GW on one of two narrow paths heading S, which merge after crossing a stream running alongside the GW.

In 250m fork right at a path junction, now heading W with the ground sloping down to a stream on your right. The path slowly curves round to the left and climbs away from the stream, and in 350m meets a broad ride. Go straight across this onto a path which immediately turns right, heading SW. It curves to the left and through the trees you should be able to see a field ahead on your left. Follow the path past a corner of the wood to go gently downhill near its edge, with the field off to your left.

Ignore paths off to the right until you cross a stream on a plank bridge, then turn right at the next junction onto a narrow path heading WNW. This bends slightly right to recross the stream, then swings left and right to emerge at a junction of broad rides, with a small information board about oaks and hornbeams. Keep ahead at this junction (at the south-east corner of all three waymarked routes) and follow the ride for 250m back to the entrance.

b. Alternative routes (2½ or 1½ or 1 km)

An information panel at the entrance to these woods briefly describes three circular trails, waymarked in both directions with red, blue and yellow arrows. As shown on the first marker post just inside the wood you can start either by turning left (for the clockwise direction) or going straight ahead.

3. Ham Street Woods to Warehorne (2 km)

Go back out through the parking area and all the way along Bourne Lane, now on the Saxon Shore Way². Turn right at the T-junction with the B2067 and follow this into the centre of Hamstreet³, passing the Dukes Head pub on your left. Go straight ahead at the crossroads here, signposted to Tenterden.

In 300m the road goes under the railway bridge. The pavement ends so you need to take care as you have a further 250m along this road. Immediately after going under the A2070 turn left onto a signposted footpath; over a stile, up a flight of steps and along a fenced path. In 100m go over a stile in the fence on your right and turn half-left as indicated, heading SW.

Proceed in this direction across several large fields, following footpath waymarkers and negotiating stiles and gates as necessary. The path gradually descends and after 500m you cross a ditch on a concrete slab and go along the edge of a small meadow, with a line of trees on your right. On the far side go through a metal gate into a farm field and keep to its right-hand edge, curving slightly right to head directly towards Warehorne church.

In the corner of the field follow the path through a gap in the trees and along a driveway into the village. Continue along a grassy strip to the right of Church Lane, heading W. Just after passing St Matthew's church⁴ on the left you come to the suggested lunchtime stop, the Woolpack Inn.

4. Warehorne to Kenardington Church (1¾ km)

Turn right out of the pub to continue along the lane for 150m. Shortly before it curves right turn left into a lane leading to a farm, then almost immediately go through a kissing gate on the right with a signpost for the SSW. Go straight across the field and through a kissing gate in the hedge on the far side. Continue in the same direction across a much larger field, still heading W.

On the far side go through another kissing gate in the line of trees and turn half-left into the top corner of another large field. You are heading for Kenardington church, visible 1 km away, but you need to aim slightly to its left to find a chain of footbridges across Horsemarsh Sewer and two flanking ditches, which run through the centre of this low valley.

On the other side of these waterways keep ahead across a small field and go through a kissing gate to the right of a metal fieldgate. Continue up the left-hand side of the next field to reach the unusual St Mary's church⁵ (some way from its village), which is worth visiting.

If you are doing Short Walk 1, go to §10.

5. Kenardington Church to The Mound (2¼ km)

With the church door behind you, turn half-right and leave the churchyard through a kissing gate under a large tree.

Ignore the path ahead across the field and turn right. Follow the field edge around two corners and through a kissing gate onto a minor road (Church Lane). Go through another kissing gate in the hedge opposite into a vast farm field and turn left along its edge. In 40m turn right to head WSW across the field, directly away from an opening onto the lane.

You will now be heading in this direction for over 500m, staying near the left-hand edge of this irregularly-shaped field and with occasional SSW waymarkers to guide you. Avoid a faint path branching off to the left after 60m and go up to the corner of a hedge to continue alongside it for 150m. At the end keep ahead across the field for 250m to the corner of another hedge and again continue alongside it. In the corner of the field go through a kissing gate, along the left-hand edge of a small field and out through another metal gate.

Go straight across a sunken byway and up a flight of steps into Gusbourne Vineyard⁶, with an information panel about its operation (and a reminder to stay on the public footpath). The remainder of this section continues to follow the SSW on a broad and well-marked path through this extensive vineyard, heading SW.

The path goes gently downhill, crossing a lane (Snargate Road) after 350m and a stream on a plank bridge in a further 300m. It then climbs gently through a farm field for 200m and goes through a gap in a hedge into another part of the vineyard. In 350m you cross a farm track and bear right as indicated, alongside a line of trees on your right. At the end of these trees there is a path junction, with a prominent mound ahead on your left.

If you are doing Short Walk 2, go to §9.

6. The Mound to Park Wood (1¼ km)

The Main Walk continues in the same direction alongside a wire fence and then a hedge, leaving the SSW (although you might like to detour onto the mound for the view across Romney Marsh). Follow the grassy path round to the right and downhill, with a fine view across a lake after 200m. Keep right to go alongside the lake, eventually passing the medieval Horne's Place Chapel⁷ (with an English Heritage information panel) on the right, next to the picturesque manor house. Follow the driveway out to Kenardington Road.

The most direct continuation would be through a double fieldgate opposite and along a farm track leading to a corner of Park Wood. This is not a right of way (and the gate is usually locked) but if Gusbourne Vineyard allow access in the future you could save 250m by taking this track and rejoining the route at the start of the next section.

To stay on the right of way, turn left briefly onto the road and almost immediately veer right onto a signposted footpath. Go through a side gate to the left of a metal fieldgate and along an enclosed grassy track. At the far end cross a ditch on a plank bridge and turn right onto a driveway towards a house. At a gate bear right onto a grassy path around the side of the house. Go over a stile and follow the enclosed path around the edge of a field to its top right-hand corner.

Go over a stile onto a short path through an abandoned orchard, heading NE. This little-used woodland path becomes slightly indistinct but soon emerges through a gap in the trees into the vineyard, where the right of way turns left onto a farm track (the one from the fieldgate on Kenardington Road).

7. Park Wood to Sly Corner (1½ km)

The right of way continues along the edge of the vineyard, but there are also permissive paths just inside the woods on your left. Instead of going out onto the track you could turn left with the woodland path, going alongside a short line of old hornbeam trees before turning right towards another exit into the vineyard. At this exit you could again join the public footpath or veer left into the open-access Park Wood, forking right onto a broad path near its edge.

If you proceed outside the wood, keep going alongside it for 300m (the vines currently end before this, but this might change). In the corner of the field a marker post directs you through a metal gate into the wood, where you would bear right to join the alternative path. Ignore marker arrows pointing left (for a circular trail back to Park Wood's car park) and in 100m turn right at a path T-junction. At the next junction veer left onto a path leading to a short stretch of boardwalk across a muddy area.

You will now be following a meandering public footpath through Heron Wood for nearly 1 km, heading roughly NE and with occasional yellow waymarkers to guide you. Halfway along you pass a redundant black metal gate (presumably marking an old boundary) and later you cross a broad track, slightly to the right. Eventually you turn left onto a potentially muddy track at the edge of the wood, which leads out to a narrow lane. Turn right and follow it past a small farm to a T-junction with Kenardington Road at Sly Corner.

8. Sly Corner to Higham Farm (1½ km)

Cross the road carefully and go over a stile in the hedge opposite. Go straight ahead across a large field, heading ESE. In 250m you pass the right-hand end of a line of trees at an old field boundary and continue in the same direction (but with no clear path). In 200m you pass to the right of a couple of poles and shortly afterwards cross over your outward route. Head towards a stile in the middle of a line of trees ahead.

Go over the stile and turn right to go along the edge of a field. In the field corner go through a gap and turn left onto a quiet lane (Snargate Road). In 500m keep right where Church Lane joins from the left. In a further 250m go past a footpath on the left (the Short Walk 1 route from Kenardington church), soon passing Higham Farm on the right.

Continue the directions at §11.

9. The Mound to Appledore (village) direct (1½ km)

The SSW continues over the top of the mound, where you will find a wooden bench with the appropriate injunction to “Take a pew - enjoy the view” as you gaze out over the wide expanse of Romney Marsh. Keep ahead on a broad grassy strip descending between the vineyard and a farm field.

At the bottom go through a kissing gate and continue near the left-hand edge of a small field to the far corner. Cross a footbridge over a stream and turn half-left to go diagonally up across the next field. On the far side bear left and go along the field edge to a tarmac lane.

At the lane, turn right through a metal gate and make your way to the opposite corner of a playing field, where you pass a toilet block. Turn left onto the B2080 to go through the village of Appledore on its long main street. In 300m you pass the Village Stores on the left, then in a further 100m Miss Mollett's High Class Tea Room on the right. If you want more substantial fare, the Black Lion pub is 100m ahead.

Complete the directions at §12.

10. Kenardington Church to Higham Farm direct (¾ km)

With the church door behind you, turn half-right and leave the churchyard through a kissing gate under a large tree.

Go straight ahead across a large farm field, leaving the SSW; if the field path is not marked out, stay roughly parallel to the hedge 100m off to your right. On the far side go over an old stile and keep ahead alongside a short piece of hedge in another large field. Bear slightly right down across this field, gradually approaching the lane on your right. Go across a plank bridge in the hedge and turn left onto the lane (Snargate Road), soon passing Higham Farm on the right.

11. Higham Farm to Appledore (village) (3¾ km)

After passing the farmhouse the lane comes to a low bridge over the Royal Military Canal, with signposted footpaths on both banks. Do not cross the canal but turn right through a wooden kissing gate onto a long narrow piece of grassland, flanked by a ditch on the right and the canal behind a raised bank on your left.

You now simply follow this broad grassy strip (or a shady path up on the tree-lined bank) to the outskirts of Appledore. On your right there are large farm fields and later the lower slopes of Gusbourne Vineyard⁶; from the bank there are sweeping views across Romney Marsh through gaps in the trees.

In 2½ km (where the canal turns left) ignore a stile next to a metal fieldgate on the right. In a further 500m, after passing some farm buildings and before the canal swings round to the right, turn right onto a wooden footbridge across the ditch. Follow the fenced path round to the right (briefly doubling back) and then to the left. At the end keep ahead on a lane (Old Way), which in 200m comes out onto Appledore's attractive main street, the B2080.

The village's two possible refreshment places are each 50m away, in opposite directions: Miss Mollett's High Class Tea Room is on the right, the Black Lion pub (and the continuation of the walk) on the left.

12. Appledore (village) to Appledore Station (2¼ km)

If the right of way through the crops has been marked out the route for the next 1 km will be obvious. If not, stay roughly parallel to the B2080 (behind the hedge 50m off to your left); aim first for a stile in the wire fence ahead and then a series of wooden footbridges which take you across drainage ditches at the remaining field boundaries. After the third of these bridges the path bears left and gradually approaches the road.

Go across a plank bridge in the hedge and turn right onto the road, taking great care as there is only a narrow grass verge. Appledore station is just over 500m away. Trains to Ashford leave from Platform 1 on this side of the level crossing; for Rye and Hastings you would need to go over the crossing before the barriers come down and turn right onto a path to reach Platform 2, 100m back from the road.

Walk Notes

1. The Greensand Way follows the course of a sandstone ridge just to the south of the North Downs. The village of Hamstreet is at one end of this long-distance path, which runs for 175 km to Haslemere in Surrey.
2. The Saxon Shore Way marks a line of coastal fortifications built by the Romans in the 3rdC as a defence against Saxon invaders. It runs for over 250 km, from Hastings in East Sussex round to Gravesend on the north Kent coast.
3. Hamstreet (the station is spelt differently) was featured on a set of postage stamps to mark the bicentenary of the Ordnance Survey in 1991. A baseline for the triangulation was measured in the nearby village of Ruckinge and the surrounding area was one of the first in the country to be accurately mapped.
4. The oldest parts of St Matthew, Warehorne date from around 1200, but most of the building (such as the brick tower and gabled porch) is much later. A tunnel built by smugglers linked the church with the Woolpack Inn.
5. St Mary, Kenardington is on the site of a small Saxon fort. The square tower dates from 1170; the unusual round tower on its north side contains the staircase to its belfry. The medieval church was much larger, but the nave, chancel and north aisle all collapsed after a fire caused by lightning in 1559; the ruins were patched up to provide a smaller church based on the south aisle, hence its irregular appearance.
6. Gusbourne Vineyard has been producing award-winning English sparkling wines since 2010, from Chardonnay, Pinot Noir and Pinot Meunier grapes.
7. Horne's Place Chapel was built in 1366 as a domestic chapel attached to a manor house. It is privately owned but can be visited by prior arrangement (01304-211067).
8. Ss Peter and Paul, Appledore suffered from French raids in 1380 and later neglect, but was sympathetically restored in 1925.
