Walk Notes:

This walk is centred on the gentle landscape of the Blackwater Valley, close to Constable Country, and includes some very tranquil and scenic stretches along the river itself, interspersed with long stretches along country lanes, green lanes or field boundaries with wide and extensive views across the rolling Essex countryside of fields and woods.

A pre-lunch north westerly loop explores the valley cut by Robin's Brook, leading to Marks Hall Gardens and Arboretum, with its atmospheric early lunch stop in a converted barn.

There are a further four recommended lunch stops in Coggeshall itself (two pubs and two cafes) plus an upmarket Brasserie to choose from.

Coggeshall is one of Britain's most historic market towns. It has 300 listed buildings, amongst the ones passed on the walk are Britain's oldest barn and one its finest medieval buildings, built on the remnants of a 12th century abbey, an impressive carved timber-framed Wool Merchant's house as well as a couple of photogenic watermills and an outsized church.

A much shorter walk of 16.3 km length enables extended visits to the NT properties en route.

A scenic extension in Coggeshall leads west from Grange Barn along the Essex Way and back along the wooded Blackwater valley, closely following the river.

Walk options:

A frequent bus service running through the lunch location of Coggeshall gets you to Chelmsford station (closer to London than Kelvedon and on the same line).

Two shortcuts – cutting out all or parts of an outer loop just before lunch – reduce the walk by 6.9 km and 84m ascent/descent or by 3.9 km and 49m ascent/descent respectively.

They are rated 2/10 and 3/10 respectively.

A scenic extension in Coggeshall adds 2.5 km/1.6 mi.

Notes:

Kelvedon

Originally a Belgic settlement on the banks of the River Blackwater (the Belgae were a group of Gallo-Germanic tribes living in northern Gaul, between the English Channel and the west bank of the Rhine, from at least the 3rd century BC and were also found in Britain), the Romans knew it as Canonium, an important staging point on the route linking London to East Anglia via Colchester.

Blackwater River

The Blackwater runs for 64 kilometres from the northwest of Essex near the edge of Debden Airfield (where it is known as the River Pant) through Bocking, near Braintree. The water volume in the Pant increases courtesy of an outlet of water piped from the River Ouse in Fenland. Downstream from Bocking the river is known as the Blackwater as it continues its course via Coggeshall to near Witham where it is joined by the River Brain. Passing Maldon it reaches the North Sea at West Mersea in one of the largest estuaries on the east coast of England. Despite that it is a comparatively small stream along most of its length suitable for watermills rather than navigation. The River Chelmer meets the Blackwater near Langford, together those two rivers drain two thirds of Essex.

Pointwell Mill

A grade I-listed house dating from ca. 1600, while the associated water-mill ceased working 1902, became derelict, and was converted into a dwelling in 1960.

Coggeshall (Cistercian) Abbey

Coggeshall Abbey was founded in 1140 on the banks of the river Blackwater by King Stephen of England and Matilda of Boulogne, as a Savigniac abbey with 12 monks from Savigny in France, the last to be established before the order was absorbed by the Cistercians in 1147. The monks used the oldest post-Roman bricks in Britain, locally made in Tilkey.

By 1370 the monastery was very poor, partly due to excessive spending and other mismanagement. During the so-called Peasants Revolt of 1381 the abbey was broken into and raided. It was heavily indebted by the time of its closure in 1538, following which the site was sold to Sir Thomas Seymour, brother of King Henry VIII's favourite wife Jane. The abbey church was rapidly ransacked and demolished. A house was built in 1581 on part of the monastery site and still survives as one of the finest medieval buildings in Britain. Later owners included the Paycocke family who were wool merchants. The abbey gate chapel also survives, restored as a church, and some other structures of uncertain purpose also remain. The current owners are undertaking an extensive staggered restoration project, while also opening the grounds for visits several times a year. <https://www.invitationtoview.co.uk/properties/the-abbey/>

St. Nicholas' Chapel

Built around 1220 it is the oldest surviving example of a post-Roman brick-building and served as the gatehouse chapel to the nearby Cistercian Abbey until the dissolution of the Monasteries in the 1530s. Later it was used as an agricultural building, but was restored to sacred use in the late 19th Century. Today it is part of the Parish of St. Peter ad Vincula.

Essex Way

The Essex Way is a 130 km (81 mi) waymarked Long Distance Footpath. The trail starts in Epping in the southwest, crosses Dedham Vale and Constable Country to finish at the port of Harwich on the Stour estuary. It leads through ancient woodlands, open farmland, tree-lined river valleys and leafy green lanes, through historic towns and villages.

Coggeshall Grange Barn

A monastic barn, it is the oldest surviving timber-frame barn in Britain and one of the oldest agricultural buildings in Europe. The earliest timbers probably date from the beginning of the 13th Century, but the barn however was extensively re-modelled in the late 14th Century and at this time clay tiles were used to replace the thatch. It underwent extensive restoration works after a compulsory purchase from its neglectful owner in the 1980s and is now NT-owned.

Combined tickets for Paycocke's House & Garden and the Grange Barn are available.

Opening times in 2016: late March until end October, Wed-Sun & Bank Holiday Mondays, 11.00-15.00.

Coggeshall

Coggeshall is a small market town, situated between Colchester and Braintree on the Roman road of Stane Street, and intersected by the River Blackwater. It is known for its almost 300 listed buildings and formerly extensive antique trade. An early Mesolithic settlement is believed to have sprung up near a ford across the river. The recorded history of Coggeshall begins around 1140 when King Stephen and Queen Matilda founded a large abbey. The monks farmed sheep, and their skilled husbandry developed high-quality wool that formed the foundation of the town's prosperous cloth trade during the 15th to mid-18th Centuries, when it was particularly renowned for its fine Coggeshall White cloth. A market has been run every week on Market Hill since 1256, when a charter was granted by Henry III.

Coggeshall is believed by some to be located at a crossing of ley lines, supposedly powerful beams of energy linked to the Earth's magnetic pull, creating "friction" and leading to an emergence of ghost stories creating the image of one of the most haunted towns in England. It is also one of several places claiming to be Warrior Queen Boudica's burial place.

Paycocke's House & Garden

A timber-framed Tudor merchant's house built around 1500 for Thomas Paycocke, the house is a grand example of the wealth generated in East Anglia by the cloth trade in the 16th Century. Stunning woodcarving and elaborate panelling mean this wealthy merchant's house was built to impress. Now NT owned, an exhibition tells the story of its riches to rags decline as well as of the Edwardian 20-year restoration.

Combined tickets for Paycocke's House & Garden and the Grange Barn are available.

Opening times in 2016: late March until end October, Wed-Sun & Bank Holiday Mondays 11.00-17.00, Gardens from 10.30, coffee shop 11.00-16.30.

Robin's Brook

The brook is named after a 16th Century wood cutter, who is said to have carved a beautiful image, called the "Angel of the Christmas Mysteries", which was hidden during the Reformation and has never reappeared. Robin's ghost has been reported near the brook, and his axe has been heard at a distance.

Cradle House

...is a 16th Century Grade II-listed building of uncertain purpose. Supposedly it was once a haven for monks who held meetings in secret rooms within the building (and who are rumoured to occasionally return to dance in the garden).

The Old Rectory

Wrongly shown as "Rectory" on OS maps, it is a Grade II-listed building (ca. 1837) in four acres of landscaped gardens, now serving as an exclusive wedding venue incl. hotel accommodation. It has eleven bedrooms and seats 150 guests. <http://weddingvenuesinessex.com/wedding-venue/essex/coggeshall>

Marks Hall Gardens and Arboretum

Known as Mercheshala in Saxon times, Marks Hall was occupied after the Norman Conquest by the Merkshall family who took their name from the Estate. It was sold at auction in 1897 to Thomas Phillips Price, who left the Estate to the nation for the advancement of agriculture, arboriculture and forestry on his death in 1932. His third wife was left a 'life interest', the bequest to the nation not taking place until she died in 1966. After the war the Estate was greatly neglected though, the buildings and lakes falling into disrepair. In 1971 the Thomas Phillips Price Trust, a registered Charity, was formed and it has worked to restore the property and create an Arboretum of national significance. The Estate was opened to the public in 1993 and hosts a tree collection from all the temperate areas of the world set in more than 200 acres of historic landscape. The 18th Century Walled Garden consists of five individual gardens and combines contemporary and traditional design, with a double border 150m long. <http://www.markshall.org.uk/>

The Clock House and Clock Tower

Only some parts of the house date from the 14th Century, most parts are from ca. 1600, the hexagonal clock tower though was only built in 1787 to replace a clock on the Corn Market House, which formerly stood in the middle of Market Hill. The tower was restored in 1887 to mark Queen Victoria's golden jubilee.

St. Peter ad Vincula Church, Coggeshall

One of a group of oversized churches built following the success of the early wool-trade in the East Anglia area. Saxon and Norman churches stood on the ground of the present building, which was built by wealthy wool merchants in the first quarter of the 15th Century. It is one of the few churches in the country dedicated to St. Peter ad Vincula (St. Peter in chains) and is Grade I listed. www.st-peter-ad-vincula.org.uk

Brockwell Meadows Nature Reserve

Brockwell Meadows is a local nature reserve on the flood plain of the Blackwater. The land was donated in 1976 by a local farmer and is now owned and managed by Kelvedon Parish Council in conjunction with the Brockwell Group using a management regime agreed with English Nature. It is about 11 acres of water meadow, hedgerow, woodland and a pond. The reserve is accessible at all times.

WALK DIRECTIONS

Alight from the train in Kelvedon Station on platform 2 and walk down some steps into the car park, where you turn right and down towards a road. Turn left along the road's pavement, in 60m crossing Kings Meadow Court to continue along the road. In 75m turn right across the road at a bend and walk through a gap to the left of a metal field gate with a footpath signpost and along a car wide grassy track with a field on the left and a willow grove and the Blackwater River on the right (25°). In 160m in the corner of the field continue in the same direction through a gap in the boundary hedge, [!] but in 35m turn left along a narrower grassy path and follow a yellow marker on a medium height pole [at time of writing broken and on the ground] pointing into a field (345°).

Continue in this direction for about 1.5 km, first through the field, then along either grassy paths or gravel farm tracks through some more fields, past Coggeshall Hall (a farm) and then past more fields. 420m after the farm at a field boundary with a row of poplars on the left and where the farm track turns right, ignore the obvious footpath veering half left across the field (310°) and turn left along a grassy margin with the poplars on the left towards some houses (260°). In 235m in the far left field corner emerge onto a road through a gap in the boundary hedge opposite a restaurant: The George & Dragon. Continue in the same direction to the left of the restaurant with a concrete signpost, gently uphill along a wide right hand field margin.

In 610m in the top right field corner pass through a wide gap in the hedge, ignore a footpath straight across the field ahead, and turn right along a grassy field margin, towards a large farm (345°). In 550m cross a concrete track and continue with a yellow marker and a fence on the right. Follow the fence around the farm yard, the many warning signs attached to the fence leaving little doubt where (not) to go. Eventually emerge into the tarmac yard of Scrip's Farm and continue to the left of a large corrugated iron barn. In 50m pass Scrip's Cottage to continue along a tarmac lane around to the left. In 200m at a T-junction (with a house called Hylands on the left) turn down right. In 130m turn left at another T-junction (with a triangular green in the middle). The lane curves right and downhill as you pass a cricket ground on the left behind trees before reaching a T-junction with a main road in Coggeshall Hamlet.

Cross the road and continue downhill a little to the right along a tarmac lane (Pointwell Lane). In 150m you walk through a wooden gate into the grounds of Pointwell Mill fronted by weeping willows, and with a sluicing millstream underneath. In 30m turn left around the mill house with a yellow marker on a cottage and head for a wooden plank bridge over the Blackwater 40m away. Walk through a metal gate and continue along an initially wide grassy spit of river meadows between the millstream and an overspill channel (the original course of the Blackwater), a very tranquil stretch. In 400m you cross a two-railed wooden plank bridge over the overspill weir and a stile into a grassy field. The river splits, the left arm being a mill stream that used to serve another mill.

Keep the river to your left, cross a couple of stiles and 250m from the weir turn left with the river towards an arched stone bridge over the Blackwater, ignoring footpaths turning right and ahead. [The path to the bridge can be dangerously flooded, in which case: take the footpath ahead with horse paddocks on the right, in 310m veer left, ignoring a path turning up right, in another 310m reach a road and turn left into Coggeshall; in 800m reach Paycocke's House & Gardens.]

Cross this bridge and one over the millstream 35m further along, with the mill on the left. Follow a farm track turning right, past the front of the Elizabethan house built on the foundations – and incorporating remnants – of the original 1140 Cistercian Abbey.

About 150m from the buildings pass a bench on the right with a dedication to some local Long Distance Walkers in front of St. Nicholas' Chapel, the former gatehouse chapel to the Abbey. Notice the Essex Way-milestone to the left of the entrance gate to the chapel. In 440m cross a main road and walk along a farm lane to have a close view of Coggeshall Grange Barn, Britain's oldest surviving barn, in 60m.

Here you have a choice:

For a scenic Extension (adds 2.5 km), out along the Essex Way and back along the wooded Blackwater Valley, (with the barn in your back) turn right along the farm lane and pick up the directions at the end of this text under Extension in Coggeshall.

For the main walk retrace your steps to the main road and turn down left into Coggeshall towards an arched stone bridge across the Blackwater. In 175m cross Long Bridge (possibly the oldest brick bridge in England) and pass Rood House on the right (16th century, a crucifix is said to have stood at the site previously, marking the entrance to the Abbey Outer Precinct). Pass the Riverside Maltings and in 40m a private driveway on the right leading to the buildings of the former Little Coggeshall Brewery (18th century, last brew 1941). In 35m cross a bridge over a stream and turn left at a fork in the road. In 90m turn left along the opposite pavement at a junction with West Street – the main road through Coggeshall (on the course of a Roman Road) – with a memorial garden on the left. In 130m pass the stunning Paycocke's House & Gardens (the garden and coffee shop are accessible without a ticket).

In 30m turn right – with a well-hidden footpath sign by a telegraph pole – into a car park to the left of a former school building (now a veterinary clinic, 345°). [West Street Vineyard and its recommended restaurant though are a further 500m along the road]. In 45m cross a stile left of a wooden field gate and continue in the same direction. In 35m walk through a gap to the right of a wooden gate and continue ahead at a four-way footpath junction along a grassy field margin with trees on the right.

*) In 200m leave the field through a gap in the boundary hedge and veer right along a grassy field boundary. In 80m reach a road at a T-junction, where – on the right and after heavy rain – the road fords Robin's Brook (Robin's Bridge on the OS map).

Here you have a choice:

For a Shortcut, cutting out the outer loop of this walk, you turn right across the ford and follow the directions at the end of the main walk directions under Shortcut I.

For the main walk, turn left along Ambridge Road (310°, blocked for motorised traffic, gently rising). In 570m cross the A120 bypass-Road and continue along a tarmac lane. In 220m pass a house on the left (Squirrel's Hall). In 450m turn right along a gravel farm track with a footpath sign on a concrete pole, in 250m following the lane through the grounds of Gatehouse Farm. 25m from the last barn ignore a footpath joining from the right. In 180m pass Cradle House on the left. In 50m reach a wooden plank bridge across Robin's Brook.

Here you have a choice:

For a Shortcut, cutting out a part of the outer loop of this walk, cross the bridge and continue along a narrow earthen path. In 60m turn right at a three-way path junction. Pick up directions in the main walk text at the double asterisk **).

For the main walk, turn left [!] before the bridge and in 15m – at the end of a red brick wall on the left – continue with the brook on the right through the garden of Cradle House. In 75m walk through a metal kissing gate and continue along the brook through a grassy paddock. On the other side of the brook is The Old Rectory, passed later along the other side (notice the unusual garden feature: a stream cascading down the slope and under a gazebo). In 60m cross a stile in the far corner of the paddock and veer left uphill through a hard-to-spot gap in bushes (260°) to find a path bearing right to the upper right hand corner of this sloping field.

Leave it through a metal kissing gate and across a stream and some growth into a field. Veer left with a marker on a pole uphill across the field on a usually well-cleared path (310°), in 480m reaching the left hand end of a row of trees. Continue in the same direction along a grassy strip with trees on the right. In 100m at the end of the wooded area reach the field boundary and continue into the next field. The right-of-way leads across this field on a usually well-cleared path (340°), but it can be skirted along the right hand boundary. In 340m continue in the same direction along a grassy margin and enter the next field through a gap in the boundary across an un-railed plank bridge. Continue along the left hand boundary with Bungate Wood on the left and in 270m cross into the next grassy field. In 100m pass under a line of large pylons, in another 190m [!] turn right at a yellow marker on a low wooden pole, just inside the next field.

*) In 275m go under the A120 Coggeshall bypass-road and continue on a clear path through a grassy area with a field on the left towards houses.

In 150m you reach a tarmac lane and in 140m turn right down a grassy path between fences with a concrete footpath signpost (due S). In 100m pass a sloped grassy area with benches on the left. In another 110m the path turns left. In 25m turn right at a T-junction with a road (Hitcham Road). In 120m turn right at a junction with Buxton Road. In 180m (just after passing number 46 and before the last house on the right) [!] turn right along a narrow path. In 30m turn left through trees into a small private car parking area with a road on the other side of it. A footpath joins from the right and down, this is Shortcut I. [!] Do not turn down right along the earthen path!

) Continue ahead to cross a road and continue in the same direction (165°) through a residential car park (by curving left around three car park spaces) and along a narrow concrete path. In 65m cross a road and continue in the same direction along Knights Road.
